TAX FACTS

Mr George Thomson, MP for Dundee East, stood up in the House of Commons this week and demanded to know what plans were being formed by the Hongkong Government to increase its revenue by means of a rise in the salaries tax. In asking his question, Mr. Thomson pointed out the huge disparities between wealth and poverty which exist in the Colony, and in doing so he unconsciously answered his own question.

Salaries tax here provides only 2.3 pc of our revenue because only about 13,000 of our 3 millions are deemed able to pay it. And the amount raised from this source can contribute little to the huge welfare plan that the Colony is underwriting — unless Mr. Thomson suggests we defeat the purpose of it by extending the tax to the vast majority of Hongkong wage earners who, according to one of his colleagues, are the lowest paid in Asia.

On the other hand, if Mr. Thomson is looking at our corporations or business profit tax, he should understand us to do that the Colony is developing because we are attracting big business. Start taxing to a degree where big business finds it unprofitable to invest, and we should lose all taxes in that direction and the means of employment for our large surplus population.

As to Mr. Thomson's statement about the vast disparities of wealth in the Colony, we in Hongkong cannot regard ourselves as guiltless. It is our own fault for allowing over a million poverty stricken refugees into the Colony. These people, having nothing, fled to Hongkong, where they hoped to find something. They did find sufficient to make them decide to stay here with us. Hongkong has strained its resources, both financial and material, to make them feel welcome. Should we have turned them back in order that we could have displayed to the world a tidier Colony? Would Mr. Thomson, MP, care to give us his answer?

Families of U.S. troops to return home

Augusta, Nov. 16. President Eisenhower today ordered the return next year of 284,000 dependents of US troops abroad as part of a sweeping seven-point Government economy programme.

Mr. Eisenhower personally announced the moves at a special news conference at his vacation headquarters. He said the emergency steps were urgently needed to guard US gold and dollar resources.

BUYING IN HONGKONG 'EXTREMELY LIMITED'

A spokesman for the American Consulate-General told the China Mail this morning that "if there is any military buying in Hongkong at all it is extremely limited."

"maybe the purchasing agents are just buying furniture, furnishings and what not for American personnel living elsewhere," he said, "but that isn't military purchasing. And the amount is not very big."

The Navy PX purchasing office here said they have not yet received any detailed instructions from their Tokyo head office.

"But our function here is to diminish our combat strength until the Nato (North Atlantic Treaty Organisation) countries ... find it possible to fill the gap," he said.

Mr. Eisenhower issued a series of special directives which ordered these other important moves:

★ The State Department must "place primary emphasis on financing goods and services of United States origin" in all economic and technical aid to other countries.

★ The Defense Department must cut — "by a very substantial amount" — all military buying planned abroad in 1961, both for American defence forces as well as those of allied nations.

★ Post Exchanges (PX) operated overseas were ordered to stop buying foreign goods except with personal permission of the Defence Secretary.

★ Commissaries and stores operated by American embassies also were told to stop buying foreign goods for sale to American diplomats and their dependents.

MASSACRE IN THE CONGO, 33 AFRICANS SLAUGHTERED

Elisabethville, Nov. 16. Thirty-three African mine workers were massacred yesterday by rebel Baluba tribesmen in the Central Katanga town of Manono, a representative of the Belgian mining company, Geomines, said today.

The bodies were reported to have been badly mutilated — some crucified on wooden boards, others decapitated and disembowelled.

They were said to have been clerks working in the offices of their company's tin mine.

Most of the mines in Manono have been idle for nearly three months now because the Africans refused to work under Belgian bosses. The reported victims, however, were among a number who were persuaded to return to their jobs after the visit of Baluba leader Jason Sendwe two weeks ago.

Sendwe's "pacification mission" to Northern and Central Katanga at that time was backed by the United Nations. — AP.

CORRECT

A UN spokesman in Elisabethville said: "As far as we know, the report is correct."

The bodies were taken by truck to Manono, a rich mining town 300 miles north of Elisabethville.

The Geomines representative said all those killed were civil clerks working in the offices of their company's tin mine.

Most of the mines in Manono have been idle for nearly three months now because the Africans refused to work under Belgian bosses. The reported victims, however, were among a number who were persuaded to return to their jobs after the visit of Baluba leader Jason Sendwe two weeks ago.

BRITAIN'S COTTON OUTPUT

Manchester, Nov. 16. The British cotton industry produced an average of 9,690,000 pounds of single yarn cotton yard in each of the four weeks ended October 1, the National Cotton Board announced today.

The weekly average for cotton waste yarns was 1,030,000 pounds and for man-made single yarn and mixtures (including waste) 2,930,000 pounds.

This was a total weekly average of 14,650,000 pounds.

The industry also produced a weekly average of 24,500,000 yards of cotton cloth and 12,110,000 yards of man-made fibre and knitwear cloth making a total of 36,650,000 yards.

Workers in the industry on October 1 totalled 184,410. Of these, 71,210 were engaged in spinning, 7,270 in waste spinning, 16,400 in doubling and 69,470 in weaving. China Mail Special.

Textile market

New York, Nov. 16. The cotton textile market was quiet today. Interest in forward print cloth diminished with only small sales of print cloths and other constructions reported.

The wool goods market was quiet.

Orders for rayon goods were moderate for fourth quarter delivery.—AP.

New York cotton market

New York, Nov. 16. Cotton futures closed .35 cents a bale lower to 20 cents higher.

Most deliveries were lower with the market feeling pressure of liquidation nearly December. First notice day for the nearby December delivery comes up next Wednesday.

Reports that the cotton harvest is proceeding rapidly were believed to be reflected in some hedging in futures along with selling on a disappointing cotton consumption forecast.

The New York Cotton Exchange Services estimated October domestic cotton consumption at 80,000 bales compared with 73,000 bales in the month last year.—AP.

Ceylon naval chief suspended pending smuggling probe

Colombo, Nov. 16. The government today announced that Rear-Admiral Royce De Mel, Commander of the Royal Ceylon Navy, and six senior officers, have been interdicted from service pending investigations of an allegation that two naval vessels recently smuggled contraband into the island.

CLIMBED BRIDGE TO GAIN PUBLICITY

London, Nov. 16. John Morgan Free Tull, 45, who claimed to be a film stunt man, climbed 80 feet up the girders of Tower Bridge, London, because he "was not well known in Britain and wanted some publicity," a court heard here. He was "on the verge of starvation" and struggling to survive.

He pleaded guilty to climbing the girders of the suspension bridge, and insulting behaviour.

SHOUTED

A collector said Tull shouted to him from 30 feet up: "I am Johnny Tull, and I am going to die."

Ambulances and firemen were called as he climbed to 80 feet. He was given an absolute discharge for insulting behaviour, and fined five shillings with an alternative of one day's jail for climbing the girders.—China Mail Special.

JET FIGHTERS COLLIDE IN PHILIPPINES

Manila, Nov. 16. Two jet fighter planes collided in mid-air today over the Philippines' Luzon Island.

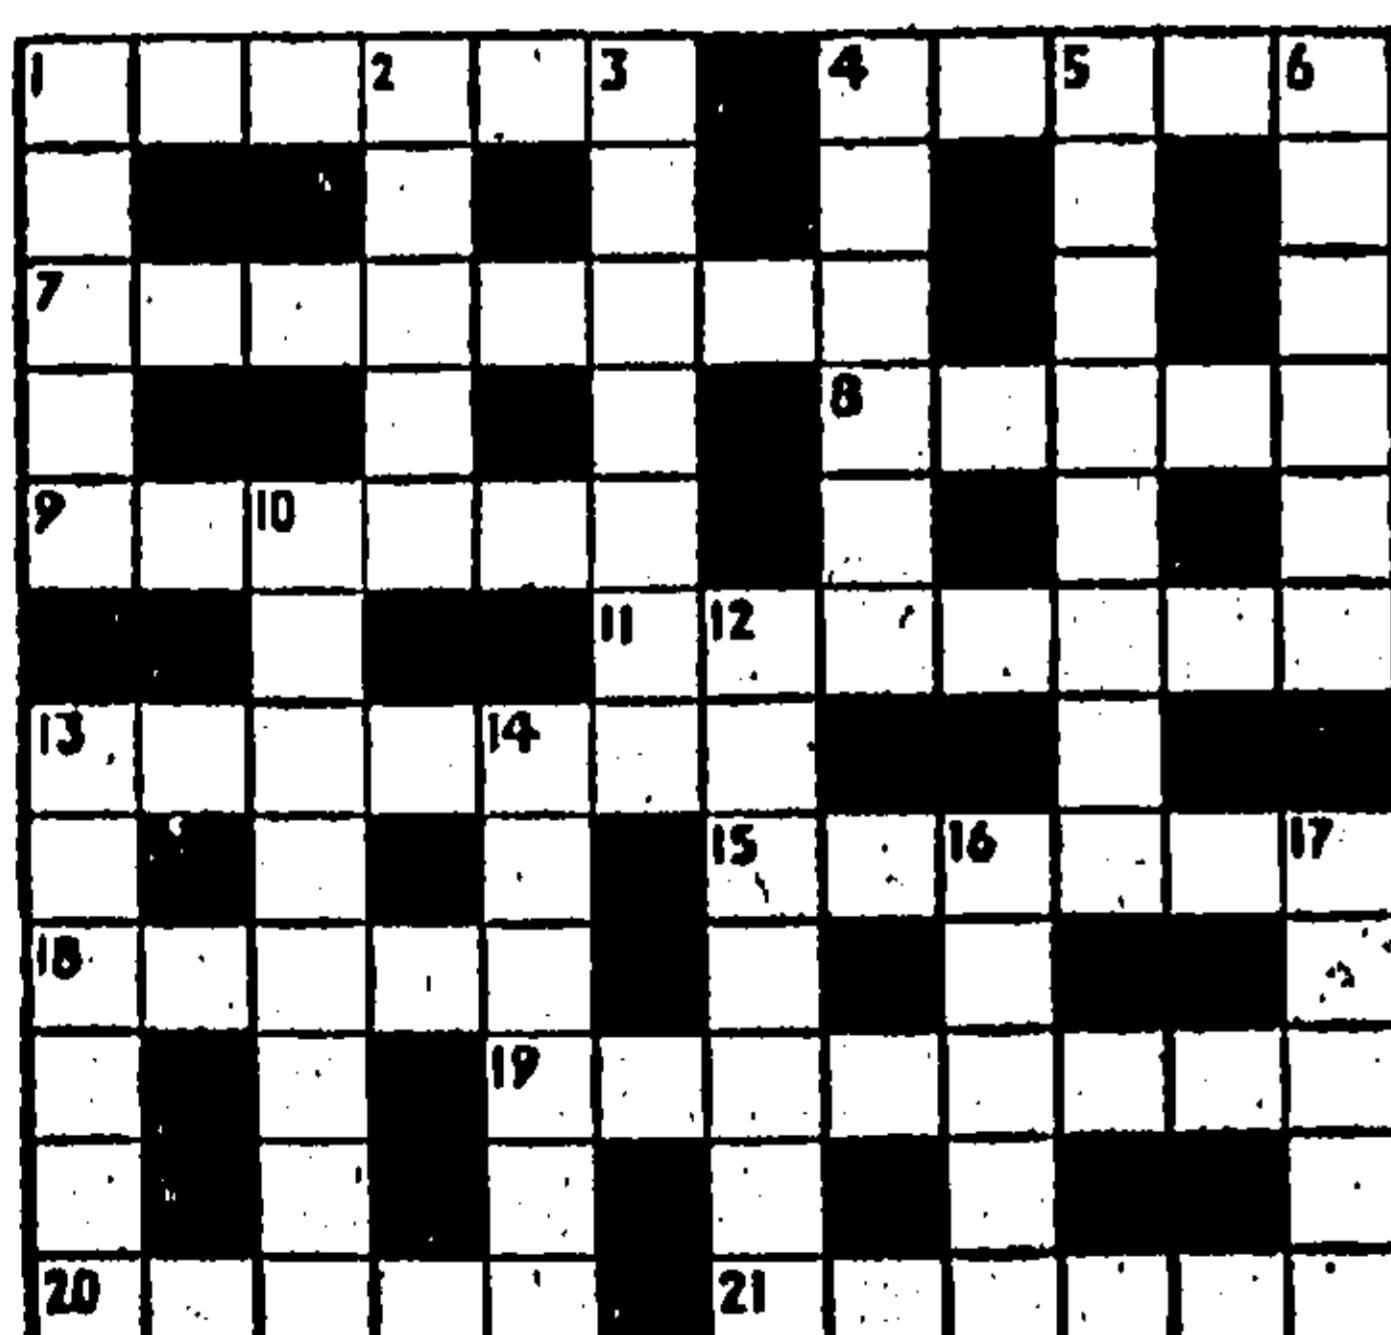

One pilot, an American officer with the joint US Military Advisory Group, parachuted to the ground, but was dead on arrival at Clark Air Force Base.

The other pilot, a Philippine Air Force officer, was missing. A US spokesman said both men were instructors with the Philippine Air Force and engaged in an air defence exercise with each other.

There were no other aircraft in the vicinity and the first report was received from farmers through the Philippine Constabulary.—AP.

VIOLENCE IN NEW ORLEANS POLICE USE FIRE HOSES ON RACIAL RIOTERS

New Orleans, Nov. 16. Police today turned fire hoses on hundreds of white teenagers and their parents who demonstrated outside the school board office against the admission of four Negro children to white schools here.

At first the crowd continued to surge forward chanting "We don't want to integrate," but then they withdrew after police warned them: "We don't want to injure anyone." Several arrests were reported.

Teenagers
Earlier the police had made a baton-charge against 1,000 yelling teenagers who jammed the narrow street near the building, but the demonstrators gathered in a nearby square to march back again.

The four Negro girls who were the focus of the demonstration were escorted by almost complete silence this morning when they went to two white schools for the third day — and found the classrooms almost deserted of pupils.—Reuter.

British woman arrested

New Orleans Nov. 16. A British woman reporter was arrested today during the demonstration against integration.

She was identified as Joyce Eglington, New York correspondent of the London Daily Herald.

Police said she was taken to a police station and charged with assaulting arresting officers, resisting arrest and refusing to move on.

A police spokesman told Reuter by telephone that Miss Eglington had been paroled after being charged, and was due to appear in police court tomorrow morning.—Reuter.

DEATH OF GILBERT HARDING

The late Mr Harding.

London, Nov. 16. Gilbert Harding, one of Britain's best-known radio and television personalities, collapsed and died in the street tonight after making a recording at Broadcasting House, London. He was 53.

His fame
Portly and moustached, he achieved national fame by often using the grumpy, crusty approach during his appearances on television panel games.

This gave him a name as Britain's best-known bad-tempered man.

He went on to endear himself to the British public — almost as a national figure.—Reuter.

IKE'S ORDERS ECONOMY CUTS

★ All government agencies will trim another $330 million. Another $270 million is to be saved in cutting back operations of other agencies.

Mr Eisenhower made it emphatically clear that he expects free countries, who have grown strong with the help of American aid, to help the United States meet its financial problems.

The Secretary of State was directed to make strong new efforts to win new tariff and trade concessions from the United States, which were shipped abroad. He was also told to press for more travel by foreigners to the United States, calling was set for them.

The Secretary of State was directed to make strong new efforts to win new tariff and trade concessions from the United States, which were shipped abroad. He was also told to press for more travel by foreigners to the United States, calling was set for them.

"We should insist," he said, "that they carry their part of the economic programme and help to meet the payments which we find so burdensome."

Eisenhower strongly hinted that at some future time the United States might reduce the number of its troops in Europe.

The Agriculture Department was directed to make an increased effort to make sure cut-rate sales of surplus farm products do not reduce cash dollar sales of similar products. At present, most surplus farm goods are sold for local currencies.

Importance

Mr Eisenhower said he called the special news conference to emphasize the importance of the steps he had ordered.

"If people — other nations — use dollars as well as gold in their financial reserves — get fearful of the American dollar, then there can be what you call a run on it."

"They (would) want to convert into gold right away, and the out-flow of gold would be so rapid that we could, of course, be easily bankrupted."

The White House estimated that if the emergency moves, approved after months of top-level study, would cut down by one billion dollars the amount of dollars spent abroad in 1961.

Half of this saving will come by slashing Defense Department spending, the White House said.

Unexpected visitor

Theale, England, Nov. 16. "Gracious," said Mrs Merrick to her husband Reginald, "what's that in our lounge?"

"It's a lorry, love," said Reginald.

A lorry it was — all five tons of it loaded with slates. Driver William Van Gemert, 44, climbed out of the lorry and explained he'd smashed through the wall of the house after he hit a curb.

SOUTH VIETNAM PLANS BIGGER ARMY

Saigon, Nov. 16. Mr Ngo Dinh Nhu, President Ngo Dinh Diem's younger brother and political adviser, said today the South Vietnam government was about to introduce far-reaching reforms in all sectors. Details will be issued tomorrow.

He said the government was studying plans to increase the size of the 150,000-man army as it was not big enough to defend the "frontiers of the free world" and combat internal subversion as well.

In an exclusive interview — the first given by a member of the President's family since the abortive paratroop coup last week — Mr. Nhu said the paratroopers were now being regrouped and would return immediately to fighting the Communists.

Mr. Nhu said about 20 people had been detained for investigation.

He said General Le Van Kim had been recalled here from the training school in Central Vietnam but there was no question of his being arrested.

He said he knew nothing of reports that the rebellious paratroopers had proposed to nominate General Kim as president.

Mr. Nhu said the government's planned reforms would affect the Cabinet, the administration, the army and the country's financial and economic setup.

CONSTITUTION
The government had based these reform on a Ford Foundation and French study group report and was getting ready even before the coup took place.

He said his brother would remain as head of state and would remain as head of the government as it was not intended to change the constitution.

Asked about relations with the United States, Mr. Nhu said these had not changed. But he alleged that press coverage in the United States and other countries had shown bias against the South Vietnamese Government.

Referring to criticism of the fact President Diem has members of his family in his government, Mr. Nhu said President Eisenhower had members of his family in his administration.

Kennedy has already indicated he has no plans to travel outside the United States.—AP.

Defence Counsel's claim*No prima facie case against men
on forgery charge

In the Victoria District Court this morning Mr Charles Ching, counsel defending Wong Tin-cheung and Kwok Kam-hoi, who are charged with conspiracy to forge US$100 banknotes, said no prima facie case had been established.

Possession of implements for forgery was not enough to establish a case.

The onus was on the prosecution, said Mr Ching, to prove that the possessors had no authority to make US$100 banknotes.

"A conspiracy must have for its purpose something illegal or else the method in which the purpose is to be achieved must be illegal," he said.

The firm Thomas de la Rue made banknotes and stamps, but had authority to do so.

"How do we know," said Mr Ching, "that Wong Tin-cheung did not have authority from them or even perhaps from the American Government in connection with some espionage activities to print US$100 banknotes?"

Judge K. R. Macfie said he thought it would be rather surprising if the latter were the case, but Mr Ching had raised an interesting point of law.

He allowed an adjournment at the request of Mr W. S. W. Davidson, Crown Counsel, to prepare his address for the prosecution with special reference to the point of law raised this morning by Mr Charles Ching.

In reply, Mr W. S. W. Davidson, Crown Counsel, said that

to judge

A 34-year-old man who pleaded guilty to taking a pen from the pocket of a 15-year-old student asked a judge at the Victoria District Court this morning to put his real nationality of Vietnamese in his police record.

Tang Man, who said he was brought to Hongkong by the Japanese during the occupation, said he came from Vietnam originally and that since then he was put down as a Chinese in the police record.

Chief Inspector C. L. Smith told Judge P. R. Springall that Tang took a Parker pen from the pocket of a student, Au Wing, on board a tram near Alexandra House in the afternoon of October 22.

When the student accused Tang of the theft, Tang challenged him to search him but the student was too frightened to do so.

RAN AWAY

At a stop in Wan Chai, Tang and the student, together with a tram conductor, got off and went to the nearest police station.

Some time later, Tang crouched down, took off his shoes and ran away, chased by the tram conductor and the student.

The pen which was dropped, was picked up and handed back to the student by a passerby. The chase ended when Tang was arrested by an off-duty police constable after a struggle.

Judge Springall remanded the case for seven days pending a report from the Probation Officer.

Tang's previous convictions dated back to 1949.

AIR TRAVEL
THREE TIMES
SPEED OF SOUND
FORECAST FOR 1970

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 16. The air traveller of 1970 will zip around the world in a 2,000-mile-per-hour, steel-jacketed speed vehicle that will be longer, slimmer and heavier than today's jets, two engineers said.

Private industry can turn out such planes — provided they receive financial help from the government, Mr Lloyd C. Goodfellow and Mr Lars G. Romberg said.

The planes flying at three times the speed of sound 60,000 to 80,000 feet above the earth will allow a man to fly from New York to California in five hours — the length of time it took to fly from New York to Chicago in the late 1930's, the engineers said in a report to a symposium on fuels and lubricants.

It was the acts preparatory to making banknotes with which the charge of conspiracy was in any case, said Mr Davidson.

It would be quite easy for the firm of Thomas de la Rue to produce evidence of their right to make notes from whomever their authority was, say, the Bank of England.

If he had authority the defendant could prove it.

Mr Davidson cited several cases from law records where it was stated that the onus of proving lawful authority was on the defendant.

It would be quite easy for the firm of Thomas de la Rue to produce evidence of their right to make notes from whomever their authority was, say, the Bank of England.

If he had authority the defendant could prove it.

Other special requirements include fuel systems designed to keep fuels from boiling away or igniting ahead of time at high speeds.—AP.

Due to the heat encountered when aircraft go faster than Mach 2 (twice the speed of sound), aluminium structures must give way to steel and titanium, the report said.

Because of the bad trump break there was no real play for the spade game, but really fine defence set North two tricks.

The queen of spades was led next and West allowed it to hold. North continued with the

The Hostess With The Mostest

WHAT makes one party memorable, another a bore? The food and drink maybe, even the decor, but what a successful party needs most of all is a good hostess. If she is well-dressed and relaxed, then her guests will feel that way too.

Answer Tomorrow

LADY LUCK

YOUR CHINA MAIL HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 17

AQUARIUS (2) (January 21-February 19): Prospects for the success of a pending deal are good, and you should not throw the towel in at the first sign of a complication.

PISCES (9) (February 20-March 20): Count ten before losing your temper even under extreme provocation, and thus spare yourself the strain of a quarrel.

ARIES (3) (March 21-April 19): A colleague will welcome your assistance in handling a tricky job, and you yourself will benefit by the experience.

Taurus (10) (April 20-May 20): It's high time you stopped bearing a grudge towards a person who quite innocently put you in the wrong with a member of the family.

GEMINI (4) (May 21-June 21): You will have some dealings with a person born under Scorpio, but will find it impossible to agree on some major points.

CANCER (8) (June 22-July 22): You will have to resist strong temptation to spend far more than you can afford on a luxury for the home.

LEO (1) (July 23-August 22): Your quick judgment and capacity for hard work ensure your success at whatever you may attempt.

VIRGO (5) (August 22-September 22): If you make a real effort to adjust yourself to your altered surroundings you may eventually find your new environment more agreeable than the old.

LIBRA (12) (September 23-October 22): Your love of economy for its own sake should not be carried to extremes. You may be missing some of the best things in life.

SCORPIO (11) (October 23-November 21): Don't let yourself be drawn into a social circle where your interests are not shared and you are likely to stagnate.

SAGITTARIUS (7) (November 22-December 21): Money received from an unexpected source will compensate you fully for a loss recently suffered.

CAPRICORN (6) (December 22-January 20): A family matter will require a great deal of tact, and you will be able to help solve a very difficult human problem.

YOUR LUCKY NUMBER: Count the letters in your first name and add the total to the number shown in brackets after your sign of the Zodiac. This is your lucky number for the week.

This time the hostess in the know will fall back on that handy fashion perennial, the little black dress. This year she will probably pick one that is designed with a difference—high-necked in front, swooping down to a low-slung back. The exit line gives the dress a new breath of fashion without losing formality, and extra verve.

Always look dazzling under artificial light, and make the other gowns look absurdly fussy, but you can buy them if you look around carefully, for less than the price of a good wool dress.

The occasion: A formal cocktail party which mixed business with pleasure. The hostess may be running the party for her husband and his business colleagues or in her own right as a career woman.

She'll wear separates because they are gay, cheap and chic in a casual throw-away fashion. If she moves in a mildly English crowd she'll probably wear pants instead of a skirt of maybe even both: slim corduroy trousers under a gathered corduroy skirt open down the front.

But she could just as easily pick a sugar pink sweater, link with a full skirt in shantung or tan of an exactly matching shade, or a skirt in deep violet contrasting a shirt in a splashy violet print.

The hostess with the mostest knows that the secret of wearing separates lies in "togetherness." They must match up either in color, pattern or fabric; it doesn't matter which.

Stuck with separates that would not be seen dead together you can accessorize further in the form of a swiveling cummerbund. In a completely different colour to link the top and the skirt. Another idea is to pick a scarf which matches the skirt's colouring, and tuck it like a bavoir into the neckline of the shirt.

Another remedy for the girl with patience, and a fair amount of dresmaking, is to bind the styling of the two pieces so well together that it looks like a single garment.

The two-piece colours to pick are black and white. They are classic and timeless. They always look dazzling under artificial light, and make the other gowns look absurdly fussy, but you can buy them if you look around carefully, for less than the price of a good wool dress.

A full-length satin gown can't go for rhinestones, plenty of them, but they need not cost a great deal—I bought a brooch in a street market for a few shillings and it still looks wild and extravagant under artificial light.

For formal evening occasions a cardigan simply won't do. But there is no need to rush out and buy furs. A stole of pure silk chiffon is cheap to make, warm in place, and is surprisingly warm.

If you like a furry look you can buy very cheaply full-length feather boas which give the same film-star glamour as white fox. But if you're determined to have fur—many firms will like out silks and wraps by post for a very reasonable fee.

This time the hostess is probably mildly surprised to find herself sitting at the top table as the chairman's wife. But many women have found themselves suddenly thrust into this role when their husband is elected president of his club.

Interest

The dinner and dance calls for dressing on a grand scale, but it need not be expensive. A simply-cut, full-length evening gown, essential, and it must have interest in the styling of the two pieces, will spend a fortune on a blouse fabric cut from the bottom edge.

The two-piece colours to pick are black and white. They are classic and timeless. They are good for the sky-boat.

Today playing the idiosyncrasy game: only one rule—swop you one of mine for yours!

by SHIRLEY LORD

EVER since I read that to show her true sense of breeding Queen Victoria never looked behind her when she sat down—neither have I...the success I've achieved in actually finding a chair there I leave to your imagination.

But this is, I believe, an idiosyncrasy on my part...and I'll admit it's the first of many.

I am also what is known as a finish-upper in the family, because I can't bear to start on a new tablet of soap, a new bottle of perfume or another tube of toothpaste until the old one is absolutely finished. Even if it's only one sad soap bubble is produced from the scrap, I insist on using it before touching a snug new tablet.

By now I suppose it would be considered eccentric if I didn't know the world is full of eccentricities just like me—which makes it everywhere with her.

She even made sure it appeared with her in her most recent lavish film Black Tights. I soon discovered the only way to learn the idiosyncrasies of women—and mine always had to come first.

I found out—fascinating—that Florence Desmond has a "thing" (as she calls it) about inking in any business engagement in her diary.

Each year when she fills in a new diary with addresses and telephone numbers she can't bear to leave out any of her old friends—even if they are no longer there.

So Jack Buchanan's number is carefully listed, alongside many others.

Cyd Charisse can't bear to see open drawers or cupboards. Her friend and mine, Gracie Fields, doesn't like to leave a light burning behind her. She made the successful Shadows.

Fashion

Mrs Hillman (June, Lady In Vaseline) who tells so much about her fascinating life in her book The Glass Ladder, hasn't mentioned there her strange habit.

Each year when she fills in a new diary with addresses and telephone numbers she can't bear to leave out any of her old friends—even if they are no longer there.

Don't you collect theatre programmes, save pieces of string? Haven't you said to yourself "If only I catch this bus, it means everything will go right today?"

No? Well, the only thing wrong with you is that you're too darned normal.

General Tin's Idea

—He Gets A Boy Named Tom To Play The Bagpipe

By MAX TRELL

"GENERAL Tin," said Knarf, the Shadow Boy with the Turned-Around Name, to his old friend, the Tin Soldier, "were you ever in Scotland?"

General Tin, who had travelled widely all over the world, answered at once that he had been to Scotland many times.

Knarf said he wished he could hear a bagpipe being played.

"I'm sorry," said General Tin, "but I don't know anybody in the neighbourhood who can play a bagpipe."

"I know lots of people in Scotland who can, but it's a bit far to go, especially as it's already late at night. We'd never get back by morning."

"Loch Lomond," said General Tin. "Loch?" repeated Knarf. "What does Loch mean?"

General Tin said, "It means a lake." That's what the Scots call them.

"But what I like best about Scotland are the bagpipes."

General Tin wasn't bothered by this. He turned toward the bookcase and called out:

"Tom! Tom!" It was extraordinarily what happened next.

General Tin went on to describe that the bagpipe player

Tom, the Piper's son, came out blowing a bagpipe.

"It's like blowing a dozen whistles all at the same time," Knarf said.

Knarf was very interested in the clothes that Tom was wearing, for instead of trousers that most boys wore, Tom was wearing something that looked like a short skirt.

"It's not a skirt at all," said Tom. He sounded a little angry as though Knarf meant to say he looked like a girl. "It's a kilt."

Here General Tin interrupted to say that Scotch soldiers were as brave as any soldiers in the world and they wore kilts.

Played: highland fling

Tom, the Piper's son, played a Highland Fling while General Tin tried to dance. He flung his arms and legs around so fast and so hard that he finally fell on the floor. Knarf had to push him up again.

Then just as Mrs Cuckoo called out 12 o'clock, Tom marched back behind the bookcase again.

"One of these days," said General Tin, "you ought to go to Scotland and see the bagpipes yourself."

Knarf heard the skirling noise.

Knarf had one last question. He asked General Tin what Tom, the Piper's son, was doing behind the bookcase.

General Tin lifted his eyebrows in surprise.

" Didn't you know? Tom, the Piper's son, lives there, inside the Mother Goose Book."

Knarf smiled and added because now he remembered.

YESTERDAY'S RUGBY

NAVY TORPEDOED BY COLONY SELECTION

By 'PROP'

Once again a Naval rugby raiding party attacked the Club Stadium, but this time they were not so successful and went away with an eleven points to five beating, which I am sure they were quite contented with.

The "pipe-opener" of the evening's entertainment at the Club Stadium was the eagerly awaited clash between the Club Selection and the Club de Recreio. My apologies to the Recreio side for saying that they had won only two games this season. Of course they beat a Club Selection before their victory over the Dragons.

Last night the Club fielded a strong side against the Portuguese lads and won very well by 22 points to three.

A fairly large crowd watched this game and gave the Recreio boys hard-pressed for the way that they stuck to their guns and refused to play second fiddle to the bigger and much more experienced Club side.

One lesson

Let us hope that Recreio have learned one lesson from this (or paper) big defeat. Running with the ball is the main idea of the game, but good kicking is never frowned upon. Especially in defence!

Recreio produced some of their best rugger to date in this game and should not lose heart. Their tackling was again up to its usual high standard and the name of Recreio in Colony rugger circles is becoming synonymous with the grassing of opponents.

Club scorers were Hall (two tries), Salter (two tries), and Dean (try). Moore converted two tries and kicked a penalty.

The outstanding players on the Club side were Pile, Hall, Williams, Johnston, Tancock and Lucy. For Club de Recreio Michael Xavier kicked a fine penalty goal and others to shine were Michael Figueiredo, who has the markings of a good full-back, Danny Figueiredo, Chaves, Ross, and Collaco.

The Navy were well supported at the start of their game against the Colony side, and it was good to see the best crowd of the season attending. That they were given plenty of entertainment for their money there is little doubt.

Colony started strongly and Scruby was early into the pic-

Amazingly inept Hongkong XI squander chances as visitors stage magnificent fightback

By OUR FOOTBALL REPORTER

Recovering from a shock second-minute goal, the visiting Singapore "Aw Hoe Cup" representative team fought back to earn a well-deserved 2-2 draw against All-Hongkong at the Government Stadium last night. The replay for the Cup will take place on Saturday at the Hongkong Stadium starting at 8 pm.

Inspired by a brilliant display by their goalkeeper, Idros Albar, the Singapore side came from behind twice as the Colony selection showed an amazing ineptitude in front of their opponents' goal.

Had the Hongkong forwards taken all the chances they made for themselves the Singapore side would have secured double figures. On top of this Army goalkeeper Kelsey, playing his first fully representative game for the Colony, made two bad mistakes both of which resulted in goals.

Kelsey had brought up a couple of good saves early in the match and appeared to be quite confident. Then in the 13th minute he went up for a cross from Ibrahim Mansoor on the left wing, fumbled, dropped the ball and before he could say "Yes", Singapore inside-left, Quah Kim-swee had it tucked away in the net.

His second mistake was even worse.

A long ball sailed into the goalmouth from Ibrahim Hassan on the right wing. He stood stock-still, apparently blinded by the lights. It struck him the face, and landed at the feet of centre-forward Mihai Ambu who accepted the "gift" and levelled the score the second time.

Another brilliant break by Scruby around the open-side of the line-out led to another score as he kicked ahead and catching the rebound was lucky just short of the line, breaching again.

With the Navy three persons sliding in a policy of lying up on their opponents in defence it was only a matter of time before the referee looked over his shoulder and caught an offender in an off-side position. That he didn't catch more is to be wondered at, for in defence the Navy played it very close to the line outside the scrum.

For the Navy Gray, Bullock, Sharp, McVicker, Luke, Arnold and Taylor played well. For the Colony every man was a hero. The particular stars were Scruby, Niall Roberts, who played the game of his life, Whately, MacDonald, Wilson and Ross. But it is extremely difficult to single them out for praise.

One more word about this Colony side. Selectors very rarely come in for any praise but this time they certainly deserve it. Well done the "backroom boys"!!

IS CRICKET DYING?

No—counties have more members than pre-war: Gates are bigger

London, Nov. 17. This winter MCC are likely to hold yet another inquiry into the state of county cricket—the fifth since the Findlay Commission in 1937-38.

This latest inquiry was proposed at a meeting of the Advisory County Committee at Lord's yesterday.

Its terms of reference clearly embrace the economics of county cricket, the need to find ways to attract large attendances, and the problem of how to raise the standard of play.

In the first of two articles we seek to cover some of the ground of this inquiry and answer the question: Is CRICKET DYING?

The new committee will be armed with the encouraging fact—shown in the adjoining table—that membership has increased considerably since the war.

Some have doubled. Warwickshire in pre-war seasons never had more than 3,000 members. In 1948 they introduced a waiting list for the first time with approximately 10,500 members. That figure has remained constant.

Kent have a record figure, while Hampshire have nearly 3,000 more. Even Yorkshire, the stronghold of pre-war county cricket before the war, with a membership of 8,000, have gone up to 10,000.

Rise and fall

Members are not included in the totals given for turnstile receipts at county matches. Despite this gate attendances of non-members also show an increase on the pre-war figures.

Clearly interest fluctuates with the weather and the strength and attractiveness of the touring side—and locally with the success or failure of the home county.

The case of Nottinghamshire is interesting. Once one of the Big Six counties they have fallen on hard times in the past decade. Although they have lost ground in the past three years—in 1957 they were up to 8,057—they are still considerably up on pre-war records.

The maintenance of their high membership is not due to the fact that Trent Bridge is in the rota of Test match grounds. Next summer, however, do not expect to see a Test between England and Australia. It is unlikely they would have lost any membership had Australia played a Test in Nottinghamshire in 1961.

What's the score?

Bud weather is blamed by almost every one of the 17 county secretaries for the decline in attendances last season. All show the same trend of decrease on 1959, but that year was a considerable increase on the previous seasons.

We find county authorities are inclined to base their comments on falling attendances on a peak year—a year which has a happy combination of sunshine and visitors of a calibre of Australia or West Indies.

A strong touring side is vital to the English public interest. This is unmistakably shown by the number of telephone inquiries made to the Test match service instituted by the GPO when the Australians were last here in 1959.

The total number of calls made each season is as follows:

1956 v. Australia ... 6,063,483
1957 v. West Indies 7,000,260
1958 v. New Zealand 2,747,501
1959 v. I.I.A. .... 1,836,340
1960 v. South Africa 2,000,340

That gap

The GPO representative told us that the record figure in 1957 was largely due to the world-record-breaking stand of 411 for the fourth wicket between Peter May and Colin Cowdrey which started before lunch on the Monday and was not broken until after lunch the following day.

This proves that the public wants a fight.

Why is it that, with membership revenue increased and attendance receipts not substantially changed, first-class cricket is unable to pay its way? They have also—with the sole exception of Yorkshire—the help of Supporters' Associations.

Funds come from football competitions. Some plough such revenue into ground improvements. Others use it to remain solvent.

The clubs also have shares from Test matches; and TV and radio rights.

Yet take the case of Sussex. Their membership subscriptions have risen from £6,100 to £14,850 last year. Their share from Test, TV, and and-away basis. In 1959 the figures had gone up to £655. Their matches with Yorkshire show an even greater increase. In 1959 the bill was £305. Last year it was £792.

Even in such a small item as fees for players and officials most counties report an increase of around £20 to £60.

The cost of maintaining professional staffs has also risen. There are few amateurs able to devote six days a week to cricket, and therefore staffs have to be larger.

The average professional, however, has not seen his wages rise in proportion to the cost of living. Before the war he was comfortably off earning between £400 and £500. Now he gets between £800 and £1,000.

More interest

There are about 500 county professionals, and it is possible many potential first-class players are lost to the game for the simple reason that a better living can be made in commerce or industry.

This particularly applies to areas like Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire where in years gone by many were thankful to exchange the mine for the cricket field.

We do not believe interest in cricket is flagging. On the contrary, Stuart Surridge tells us his firm sells three times the cricket equipment it did before the war. Most counties report far more activity than ever before.

Nottinghamshire, for instance, run three teams including a Colts XI, and their new indoor school, provided by funds from the Supporters' Association is occupied every evening by club players.

TOMORROW we will discuss the scoring rate trends and how much they contribute to falling attendances, and whether county cricket would find it practicable or profitable to play only at weekends.

NO FOLLOW-ON IN COUNTY CRICKET NEXT SEASON

London, Nov. 16.

There will be no follow-on in English county cricket next season. That was the most unexpected decision reached at today's meeting of the Advisory County Cricket Committee at Lord's.

The possibility of abolishing the follow-on—unchanged in its present form since 1900—had been discussed at the last Imperial Cricket Conference, but action was not expected so soon.

The change will not apply to matches against the Australian touring team or to matches outside the County Championship.

The new plan is designed to encourage sides to declare fairly early in their first innings instead of going on to complete massive totals in the hope of an innings victory.

Inquiry committee

It would also give the side batting second a reasonable chance of a win at all times.

The expected inquiry into the future of the game was started today when the Counties invited MCC to set up a committee to consider the whole structure of first class cricket.

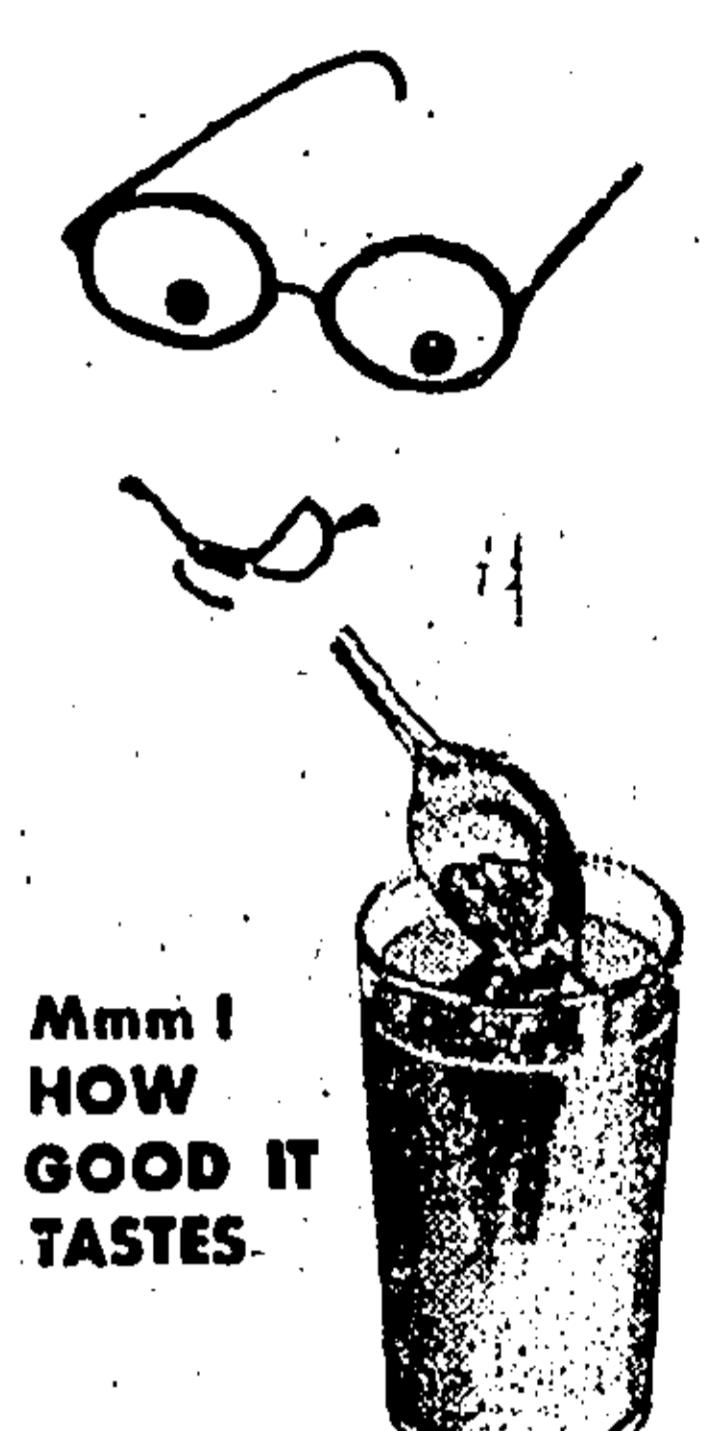

The Committee will concentrate on the wider aspects of the game, such as how to increase income for cricket and how many matches should be played each season. Matters like weekend games and a knockout competition

Test profits

So any English bowlers who transgress the throwing law in these matches will be reported by the umpires to MCC in the same way as Australians.

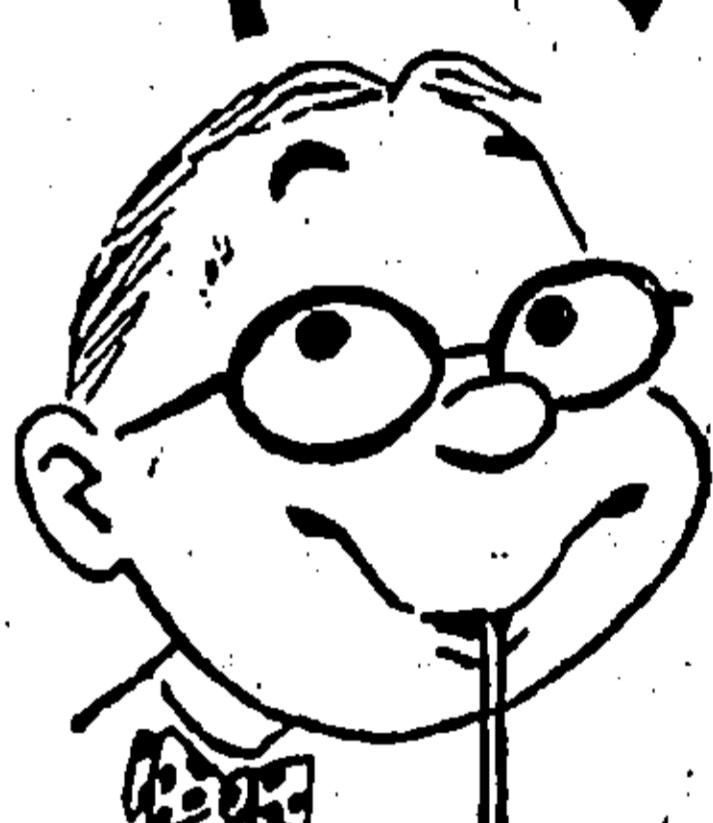

It was announced that profits from last season's Test matches with South Africa, including television and broadcasting fees, were £93,000.

Yorkshire's recent proposal for seven three-day Tests was passed to the new Cricket Inquiry Committee for consideration.—Reuter.

Holland Cup hockey opens this weekend

By NUMPERE

There being no men's League hockey matches this weekend, three of the Holland Cup first round ties originally scheduled for November 27 have been brought forward to this Sunday.

First Division Recreio 'A' who have not had a very successful season to date will be at home to Second Division Army 'C' who are unbeaten so far.

Whilst allowing for the difference in standard between the two divisions, this will be no pushover for Recreio but they should go through to the second round.

In the other two ties Recreio 'B' and Prinsen should win against HKHC 'B' and Dutch HC respectively.

Visiting Macao

In a friendly fixture the RAF play Royal Navy at Kai Tak tomorrow. The Navy have lost two matches so far against the Army and Combined Civilians but it may be a case of third time lucky aginst the RAF.

The RAF also play the Army on Sunday and KCC are visiting Macao for their annual series.

The Ladies' Division has a full programme on Saturday. The best match should be that between KCC and Recreio at King's Park where Recreio should retain their unbeaten record.

Preceding this match Gremilins 'A' should prove much too strong for St Georges and climb back to second position in the league table.

Over at Happy Valley Gremilins 'B' should take both points against KGV 'B' whilst the game between KGV 'A' and Victorians could go either way.

Fixtures TOMORROW

Friendly match

RAF vs Royal Navy at Kai Tak, 4 pm.

SATURDAY

Ladies Division

KGV 'B' vs Gremilins 'B' at Happy Valley 2.30 pm. Umpires: W. Matthews, F. Van Dongen.

KGV 'A' vs Victorians at Happy Valley 4 pm. Umpires: H. Cribbs, H. Brandt.

St George vs Gremilins 'A' at King's Park 2.30 pm. Umpires: F. Soares, Y. Khan.

KCC vs Recreio at King's Park 4 pm. Umpires: B. Mair, H. Patterson.

SUNDAY

Holland Cup (First Round)

Recreio 'A' vs Army 'C' at Recreio 2.30 pm. Umpires: A. Cunha, Y. Khan.

HKHC 'B' vs Recreio 'B' at Happy Valley 2.30 pm. Umpires: K. M. Hassan, C. Blackburn.

Dutch HC vs Prinsen at Happy Valley 4 pm. Umpires: K. Lal, H. Garton.

Friendly match

FROM the SCM Post's 25 Years Ago column: "News has reached the Colony of the appointment of Mr Joseph Horsford Kemp to the important post of Crown Solicitor and King's Proctor of Hongkong."

The news comes from a well-informed quarter and is likely to be officially confirmed at an early date.

Since January 1, 1900 the post of Crown Solicitor and King's Proctor has been held by Mr F. B. L. Bowley at a salary of $10,000 a year. The position also carried the privilege of private practice.

Previously, it was held for many years by Mr H. L. Dennys of the same firm. That the Crown Solicitor was allowed private practice and an office in the Supreme Court building has been regarded with disfavour by members of the legal profession in the Colony.

They naturally consider that it conferred an undue advantage in the obtaining of business outside of his salaried Government duties, on the fortunate occupant of the office.

This feeling found expression some months ago in a petition, signed by members of the legal firms in Hongkong, against the Crown Solicitor being allotted a suite of offices in the New Law Courts to be opened next year.

FAKE DOCTOR GETS TWO YEARS JAIL

Charles Laughton completes HK scenes

Li Kwun-hung, a 23-year-old student who pretended to be a doctor and claimed that he could find a hospital bed for a sick child, was jailed for two years at Causeway Bay Magistracy today on charges of obtaining money by false pretences.

Detective-Inspector H. V. Brown prosecuting said that Li, of 233, Queen's Road West, went to the house of Liu Wal-man at 7, King Wal-street on October 21 and offered to examine her small boy who was sick.

He said he was a doctor from Queen Mary Hospital and offered to supply a hospital bed for the boy. Liu gave him $100.

On October 27 Li went back to the house and said that an ambulance was on the way to pick up the boy. Liu gave him another $100.

No ambulance arrived and when Liu reported the matter to the police it was discovered that Li did not work at the hospital and was not a doctor.

Li, who had two similar previous convictions, pleaded guilty and asked for leniency but Magistrate T. L. Yang told him that he had not learned from the past that the offence had been a premeditated one.

Laughton—as he appeared last year as Bottom in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Mr Laughton starred in the TV film, "Terror from the East," sponsored by the Musical Corporation of America.

In the picture, Mr Laughton played the part of a missionary returning from China.

He hired a local filming unit and a number of extras with the help of Shaw and Sons Ltd.

INGRID BERGMAN'S DAUGHTER IN HK

Jennie Lindstrom, 22-year-old daughter of Ingrid Bergman and her husband Mr. Fuller E. Callaway III, arrived in the Iberia this morning from the United States on their way to France for a family reunion.

Miss Bergman is now married to European industrialist, Mr Lars Schmidt. They maintain a home at Choisel, near Versailles.

The Callaways were married this year in America. Mr Callaway is an engineer working in an electronic firm.

The couple will stay in Hongkong for a few days before leaving for France. They hope to arrive in time for Christmas.
